Reserve a book you want from Suffolk Libraries book stock to collect at Thurston Library

You can reserve your choice of book online or by phoning the library on 01359 235048 during opening hours - or online on the Suffolk Libraries website.

Just type in 'Suffolk Libraries and follow the link to the book you want to reserve.

Reserve a computer in Thurston Library

You can reserve a computer to use inside Thurston Library by phoning the library on 01359 235048 during opening hours, or come along to see if it is free.

You can book one session of 50 minutes for any one day.

The library is open for collections and returns. Our librarians will welcome you at the door where you can collect book reservations made pre-lockdown and online recently. You can also return titles to the library.

Select and collect

You can tell Suffolk Libraries what you are interested in and librarians will try to find something that matches what you're looking for. You can request a selection of titles based on a genre or author.

You can request books, audiobooks, DVDs, and music CDs.

To use Select and Collect you can either

- phone Thurston Library during opening hours to talk to the librarian or
- go online at <https://www.suffolklibraries.co.uk/select-and-collect> to complete a request form.
